Overview

The purpose of this project was to develop an inventory of current extramural funding in the Human Sciences. This project is a continuation of earlier projects undertaken by the Board on Human Sciences (BoHS) to build a database of funding sources and types. The inventory is intended to provide baseline and benchmarking information for units in the collegiate human sciences community. As extramural funding has become an increasing necessity for supporting research and instruction at comprehensive land-grant, state, and private universities, the history of funding activities in the human sciences can help in positioning these units for further development in this area. In addition, expanding relationships with funding sources and partnering with business and industry are important components of the revised mission of the Association of the Administrators of Human Sciences (AAHS) and BoHS. This database contributes to these goals.

Background

In the early 1990s an assessment of research activity in human sciences units, commissioned by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and carried out by the Chapman Research Group, Inc., revealed that a major weakness was a lack of broader public knowledge about research applicability. Additionally, the research was local in interest and few, if any, national issues were addressed. This assessment confirmed the need for a database from which to draw conclusions, and the first inventory of research projects was proposed and conducted by BoHS in 1993-94. The results of this inventory of self-reported data regarding extramural funding were presented at the 1995 meeting of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC). A second inventory was carried out by BoHS in 1994-95 and published in 1996 by NASULGC, listing research by institution and issue areas. Internal funding was reported separately from external funding, and support for teaching and extension activities, as well as research activities, were demonstrated. A third wave of data was collected in 1998 by Oklahoma State University's Bureau for Social Research and published in 1999.

The current document reports the results of a fourth wave of data collected in 2004. With the data broken out a number of ways, a picture of funding in the human sciences emerges. The range and type of funding sources from which human sciences professionals help to support their research, teaching, and extension responsibilities is evident, and should be beneficial as we move to implement our enhanced outreach and collaborative efforts and to increase our stature in the research arena.

Procedures

The Bureau for Social Research (BSR) at Oklahoma State University (OSU) received funding from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (CREES – Families, 4-H, and Nutrition program) to collect data on funded projects in the human sciences and prepare a report based on the data. The institutional paid members of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC) Association of Administrators of Human Sciences (AAHS) Board on Human Sciences (BOHS) were contacted by letter for participation on June 10, 2004. The resident members for each institution were contacted to respond to the request. Resident members were asked to share the request with cooperative extension members, where applicable.

The reporting form used in the third edition (1998) was reviewed and revised. Issue areas used in 1998 were also reviewed; members of the BoHS Executive Committee suggested collapsing the number of issue areas into six (6) main areas. Institutions were able to code their own projects according to the listed issue areas. Federal guidelines were used to provide definitions for type of project. Instructions on how to properly complete the reporting form were included to ensure uniformity across institutions.

Each institution was mailed a cover letter (addressed to the Dean), a project reporting form, instructions for completing the reporting form, and two examples of properly completed reporting forms. Institutions were told there would be no cost for participating. Institutions were invited to participate by submitting their data one of three ways: 1) paper survey forms, 2) web survey forms (on-line), or 3) generating a report with the requested information using an existing "in-house" database. Institutions were asked to return their project reports by August 15, 2004. (The cover letter and supporting materials were also emailed to the Deans on June 17, 2004.) On July 16, 2004, a reminder postcard was mailed to institutions that had not yet responded. During the middle of August, institutions that had not yet returned their forms were either called or emailed and reminded to submit their projects.

Thirty-seven (37) institutions submitted project data for the report (a decrease of 3 from the 1998 report). Once the data was received from the institutions, the data was entered in an Excel spreadsheet. Summaries of the data by institution were compiled and reviewed. When questions were identified on the reporting forms, the respective institutions were contacted by phone or email to correct and/or complete data entries. Several weeks were spent reviewing submitted data and contacting institutions for clarifications. A preliminary report was submitted to BoHS in mid-November for review at the NASULGC annual meeting.

A total of 1,649 projects were submitted for the 2004 database (a decrease of 176 projects from the 1998 project report). Even though fewer projects were submitted, the amount of funding from external sources was much higher, $240,602,168 (an increase of $83,300,250 from the 1998 edition).

Very few changes were made in how data were reported compared to the 1998 edition. When reviewing funding by source, it is important to note the following procedures were applied: 1) If an institution reported funding from another in-state university or college, then it was recorded as state funding; if an institution reported funding from another out-of-state university or college, then it was recorded as private funding. 2) If an institution reported funding from an in-state public school system (e.g., high school), it was recorded as private funding. 3) If an institution listed a board (e.g., Iowa Corn Production Board) as a state agency, then the information was recorded as state funding; whereas, if an institution listed a board (e.g., Iowa Soybean Board) as a private agency, then the information was recorded as private funding.

RE: Funded Project Database

The Executive Committee of the Board on Human Sciences (BoHS) believes it would be helpful to have a current inventory of funded projects in the human sciences in order to assist our efforts in positioning the human sciences in higher education and in our federal advocacy by identifying areas of strengths and their recognition in funded projects. Many of you participated in previous BoHS Funded Project Inventories (conducted in 1994, 1995, and 1998), and the current inventory would build on these earlier efforts to develop a database of funding sources and types. The inventory is intended to provide baseline and benchmarking information for units in the collegiate human sciences community.

Sponsored program funding/awards is of primary interest for the scope of our programs (research, instruction, and extension). However, funding which supports a specific problem with an expected outcome also provides useful information on university, Agricultural Experiment Station, and special cooperative extension programs. This baseline funding usually provides the leverage for attracting external funding.

We are requesting your institution's participation in the FY04 Funded Project Inventory. To ensure we are collecting all funding/awards in all human science programs, we would ask that you also obtain information from the Family & Consumer Science Extension Program administrators within your institution.

In an effort to increase participation of all institutional members of the Board on Human Sciences, we want to make you aware of two important changes to this year's Funded Project Inventory. First, there will be no cost for your institution's participation. We have received funding from USDA to cover costs associated with collecting the information, entering it into one database, and compiling a report. Secondly, we want to make it easy for your institution to submit the requested information, and we are providing three options: paper survey form, web survey form, or generating a report with the requested information from an existing in-house database you may have.

For each project that received funding in FY04 (July 1, 2003 – June 30, 2004) at your institution, please submit the information requested on the enclosed reporting form. If you choose to submit paper forms, please duplicate the reporting form as needed and complete one form for each project. If you elect to submit your information using the web form, please complete the reporting form once for each funded project. If you prefer to generate your own report from an existing in-house database, please make sure all of the requested information is provided in your report (see reporting form).

In addition to the two-page reporting form, we have included a one-page set of instructions/guidelines for completing the form. Also enclosed are two sample forms that represent different types of projects and sources of funding. Remember, although a grant may be for three years, only include the funding for FY04. Please submit the materials for your institution as soon as possible, but not later than August 15, 2004 to:

Dr. Christine A. Johnson, Director
Bureau for Social Research

Oklahoma State University

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions. In advance, thank you for your participation in this important project.

Appendix B: Reminder Postcard to Deans

We haven't heard from you...Don't be left out!

Colorado State University, the Ohio State University, Purdue University, Texas Tech University, and the University of Arkansas have submitted their information on funded projects for the FY04 Board on Human Sciences Project Inventory.

Participation in the FY04 Project Inventory is FREE (funding has been provided by USDA to conduct the study).

The easiest way to participate is to have your grants/contracts manager produce a list of all sponsored program funding/awards for FY04 and send the list to us.

We look forward to receiving your institution's information by August 15, 2004. If you have any questions please feel free to contact us at 405-744-6701 or christine.johnson@okstate.edu

(Don't forget to include information from the Family & Consumer Science Extension programs in the Human Sciences.)

Reporting Form for Fiscal Year 2004
for
Funded Projects in the Human Sciences

Due Date:

- August 15, 2004

Instructions:

- Use this form for reporting each funded project in Family and Consumer Sciences/Human Sciences/Human Ecology programs for fiscal year 2004 (July 1, 2003-June 30, 2004). Use one form per project; make additional copies as needed.

Please enter the project information in the form below.

Institution Name:

Project Title: (Please give complete name)

Project Dates:

Begin date: _____

End date: _____

Name(s) of Investigator(s):

Instruction Sheet for completing the FY04 Reporting Form

- Institution Name: Give the full name of your institution.
- Project Title: List the actual project title.
- Project Dates: Provide beginning and ending dates of the project.
- Name(s) of Investigator(s): List last name, first name, and middle initial for all PIs.
- Current Department: Indicate departmental affiliation of PIs. If PIs are from multiple institutions, also indicate name of institutions.
- %FTE: Give the PI's percent time on the project (e.g., 25%) for FY04.
- Names of Multiple Institutions: If multiple institutions are involved, please give name(s) of institution(s).
- Type of Project: Use federal guidelines (OMB Circular A-21):
Research: Organized research means all research and development activities of an institution that are separately budgeted and accounted for. This includes all research and development activities that are sponsored by Federal and non-Federal agencies and organizations. This term also includes activities involving the training of individuals in research techniques.
Instruction: Instruction means the teaching and training activities of an institution. This includes all teaching and training activities, whether they are offered for credits toward a degree or certificate or on a non-credit basis, and whether they are offered through regular academic departments or separate divisions.
Extension: The term "extension" is not defined. However, the Circular defines the term "other sponsored activities" as programs and projects sponsored by Federal and non-Federal agencies and organizations which involve the performance of work other than instruction and organized research that are typically disseminated to non-campus audiences. Examples are health service projects, community service programs, and cooperative extension services provided from grants (not baseline salaries).
Administration: Support to administer programs not assigned for a specific project (i.e. Agricultural Experiment Station, Vocational Education).
- Project Issue Area: Select one primary issue area.
- Source(s) of Funding and Amount: Divided into two types: 1) Baseline funding, and 2) Sponsored program funding/awards. Only include funding for FY04.
Baseline Funding: Include fringe benefits and specify amount of funding by source:
a) Internal to the department/college/university (base budget),
b) Agricultural Experiment Station funding which supports special programs (include HATCH funds as well as state support),
c) Internal Cooperative Extension special grants (exclude salaries).
Sponsored Program Funding/Awards: Include all grants and contracts for sponsored programs that support projects in the unit. Be sure to include the total funding: support for faculty salary, graduate assistant salary, supplies, maintenance, travel, equipment, indirect costs, etc.
Provide the agency name and specify the amount of funding from:
a) Federal competitive awards
b) Private funding
c) State competitive awards
Total funded amount: Be sure to specify the total funded amount of the project.

If you want to submit your information on-line, please use the web survey form at:
